Proposal for a

COUNCIL REGULATION

laying down specific measures for agriculture in favour of the smaller Aegean islands and amending Regulation (EC) No 1782/2003

(presented by the Commission)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

On 19 July 1993, the Council adopted Regulation (EEC) No 2019/93 introducing specific measures for the smaller Aegean islands concerning certain agricultural products. These measures have proven to be effective in promoting agriculture and securing supplies to these islands.

On the other hand, the administration of these arrangements leaves something to be desired; the management of the two strands of the scheme, i.e. the specific supply arrangements and support for local lines of production in the smaller Aegean islands, has proven somewhat inflexible. Adapting the supply balances to take account of even small fluctuations in demand requires the Commission to adopt legislation.

The arrangements for supporting local lines of production are, moreover, fragmented into several (micro-) measures established by the said Council regulation. It is not possible to adjust these measures without an inter-institutional legislative procedure, which slows down Community action and hampers attempts to react as quickly as possible to specific situations in the smaller Aegean islands, even though often only modest sums are involved.

In this respect, it is, therefore, proposed to change the philosophy behind the way assistance is provided for these smaller islands; by encouraging participation in decision making and speeding up the response to their specific needs.

This Regulation provides for the submission by Greece of one programme concerning the smaller Aegean islands. This programme will include a section on the specific supply arrangements for those agricultural products which are essential in the smaller Aegean islands for human consumption, as agricultural inputs or for processing, and another section on support for local production.

The Regulation does not affect the sources of financing or the intensity of Community support.

The Community will finance the programme under the EAGGF Guarantee Section at 100% up to an annual ceiling established in the Council Regulation. Part of this aid will have to be reserved for local agricultural production. The amounts have been calculated on the basis of the average expenditure on financing the specific supply arrangements during the reference period of 2003 and on the basis of expenditure ceilings applicable to support for local production.

COUNCIL REGULATION

laying down specific measures for agriculture in favour of the smaller Aegean islands and amending Regulation (EC) No 1782/2003

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Articles 36 and 37 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Parliament<sup>1</sup>,

Whereas:

- (1) The particular geographical situation of some of the Aegean islands imposes additional transport costs in supplying products which are essential for human consumption, for processing or as agricultural inputs. In addition, objective factors arising as a result of insularity and remoteness impose further constraints on economic operators and producers in those Aegean islands that severely handicap their activities. In certain cases, operators and producers suffer from double insularity. Those handicaps can be alleviated by lowering the price of those products. It is therefore appropriate to introduce specific supply arrangements to guarantee supply to the Aegean islands and compensate for the additional costs arising from their remoteness, insularity and distant location.
- (2) The problems experienced by the Aegean islands are accentuated by the lack of size of the islands; in order to guarantee the effectiveness of the measures envisaged, such measures should only apply to islands known as the 'smaller islands'.
- (3) Community policy to assist local production in the smaller Aegean islands as established by Council Regulation (EEC) No 2019/93 of 19 July 1993 introducing specific measures for the smaller Aegean islands concerning certain agricultural products<sup>2</sup> has involved a multitude of products and measures for their production, marketing or processing. Those measures have proved effective and have ensured that agricultural activities have been maintained and developed. The Community should continue to support the lines of production, which are a key factor in the environmental, social and economic equilibrium of the smaller Aegean islands. Experience has shown that, as in the case of rural development policy, a closer partnership with the local authorities can help to address the particular issues affecting the islands concerned in a more targeted way. Support for local production should thus continue through general programme at the most appropriate geographical level, to be submitted by the Greece to the Commission.

- (4) In order to achieve the goal of lowering prices in the smaller Aegean islands and mitigating the additional costs of their remoteness, insularity and distant location while maintaining the competitiveness of Community products, aid should be granted for the supply of community products to the smaller Aegean islands. Such aid should take account of the additional cost of transport to the smaller Aegean islands and, in the case of agricultural inputs and products intended for processing, the additional costs of insularity and distant location.
- (5) Since the quantities covered by the specific supply arrangements are limited to the supply requirements of the smaller Aegean islands, those arrangements do not impair the proper functioning of the internal market. Nor should the economic advantages of the specific supply arrangements provoke diversions of trade in the products concerned. Dispatching or exportation of those products from the smaller Aegean islands should therefore be prohibited. However, dispatch or exportation of those products should be authorised where the advantage resulting from the specific supply arrangements is reimbursed or, in the case of processed products, to permit regional trade. Account should also be taken of exports to third countries and processed products corresponding to traditional exports should accordingly be authorised. Nor should the restriction apply to the traditional dispatching of processed products. For the sake of clarity, the reference period for defining those traditionally exported or dispatched quantities should be specified.
- (6) In order to achieve the objectives of the specific supply arrangements, the economic advantages of the arrangements must be in terms of production costs and must cut prices up to the end-user stage. They should therefore be granted only on condition that they are actually passed on, to the end user and appropriate checks must be carried out.
- (7) To help achieve the goals of developing local agricultural production and the supply of agricultural products, the level of programming of supplies to the islands concerned should be harmonised and the approach of partnership between the Commission and Greece should be systematic. The supply programme should therefore be established by the authorities designated by Greece and submitted to the Commission for approval.
- (8) Farmers in the smaller Aegean islands should be encouraged to supply quality products and the marketing of these should be assisted.
- (9) A derogation may be granted from the Commission's consistent policy of not authorising State operating aid for the production, processing and marketing of agricultural products covered by Annex I to the Treaty in order to mitigate the specific constraints on farming in the smaller Aegean islands as a result of their remoteness, insularity and distant location, small area, mountainous terrain and climate and their economic dependency on a small number of products.
- (10) Implementation of this Regulation should not jeopardise the level of special support from which the smaller Aegean islands have benefited up to now. For that reason, so that they can carry out the appropriate measures, Greece should have at its disposal sums equivalent to the community support already granted under Regulation (EEC) No 2019/93. The new system of support for agricultural production in the smaller Aegean islands established by this Regulation should be coordinated with the support for the same lines of production in force in the rest of the Community. For the sake of clarity Regulation (EEC) No 2019/93 should therefore be repealed.

- (11) In accordance with the principle of subsidiarity and the spirit of Council Regulation (EC) No 1782/2003 of 29 September 2003 establishing common rules for direct support schemes under the common agricultural policy and establishing certain support schemes for farmers<sup>3</sup> it is appropriate to devolve the management of the specific measures for the smaller Aegean islands to Greece; therefore these measures may be operated through a programme approved by the Commission.
- (12) Greece has decided to apply the Single Payment Scheme to the entirety of the country as from 1 January 2006. To ensure coordination of the respective arrangements concerning the smaller Aegean islands Regulation (EC) No 1782/2003 should therefore be amended.
- (13) The measures necessary for the implementation of this Regulation should be adopted in accordance with Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission<sup>4</sup>.
- (14) The programme provided for in this Regulation should start to apply on 1 January 2007. However, to enable the programme to start on that date, Greece and the Commission should be permitted to take all the preparatory measures between the date of entry into force of this Regulation and that of the application of the programme,

HAS ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

The forecast supply balance shall be established by the authorities designated by Greece and submitted to the Commission for approval.

A separate forecast balance may be drawn up for the requirements of undertakings packaging and processing products intended for the local market, for traditional consignment to the rest of the Community or for export as part of traditional trade flows.

Article 4

Operation of the arrangements

1. An aid shall be granted for the supply to the smaller islands of the products referred to in Article 3(1).

The amount of the aid shall be fixed taking into consideration the additional costs of marketing products in the smaller islands, calculated from the usual ports of shipment in mainland Greece, and from the ports of islands of transit or of loading for the islands of final destination.
2. In implementing the specific supply arrangements, account shall be taken, in particular, of the following:
  - (a) the specific needs of the smaller islands and the precise quality requirements;

Export to third countries and dispatch to the rest of the Community

1. Products covered by the specific supply arrangements may be exported to third countries or dispatched to the rest of the Community only on conditions laid down in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 15(2).

Those conditions shall include in particular reimbursement of the aid received under the specific supply arrangements.

2. Export to third countries or dispatching to the rest of the Community is possible for products processed in the smaller islands from products having benefited from the specific supply arrangements within the limits of traditional exports and traditional dispatches. The quantities to be exported or dispatched shall be specified in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 15(2).

No export refund shall be granted for the products thus exported.

1. Measures taken under the support programme must comply with Community law and be consistent with other Community policies and with the measures taken to implement those policies.
2. Consistency of the measures taken under the support programme with measures implemented under other instruments of the common agricultural policy, and in particular the common organisations of markets, rural development, product quality, animal welfare and protection of the environment, must be ensured.

In particular, no measure under this Chapter may be financed as:

- (a) additional support for premium or aid schemes under a common organisation of the market save in exceptional cases justified by objective criteria;
- (b) support for research projects, measures to support research projects or measures eligible for Community financing under Council Decision 90/424/EEC<sup>5</sup> ;
- (c) support for measures within the scope of Council Regulation (EC) No 1698/2005<sup>6</sup>.

Article 9 Content of Support programme

A support programme may contain:

- (b) a description of the strategy proposed, the priorities selected, its quantified objectives, and an appraisal showing the expected economic, environmental and social impact, including employment effects;
- (c) a schedule for the implementation of the measures and a general indicative financing table showing the resources that may be deployed;
- (d) proof of the compatibility and consistency between the various measures under the support programme and the criteria to be used for monitoring and evaluation;
