COMMISSION WORKING DOCUMENT

Second progress report on the strategy for simplifying the regulatory environment

1. INTRODUCTION

Begun in October 2005, the strategy for simplifying the regulatory environment¹ set out a rolling programme of simplification measures to be adopted between 2005 and 2008 with a view to improving the quality and effectiveness of the acquis while preserving its main policy goals.

This second progress report, which complements the Communication on the “Second strategic review on Better Regulation in the European Union”², describes in both qualitative and quantitative terms the results already achieved, maps out the route ahead for the EU legislature and aims to provide fresh impetus for the simplification strategy which is an essential element of the overall Better Regulation Policy and Growth and Employment Strategy of the European Union.

This report also shows that the Commission is effectively delivering on its commitments under the rolling programme.

Citizens and companies have already seen tangible results and will see more as the large number of initiatives currently pending before the legislature are adopted. Effort is being focussed on projects bringing significant benefits to stakeholders, such as small and medium sized enterprises (SMEs) or individual entrepreneurs, who are too often confronted with disproportionate regulatory demands.

The Commission will complete a full screening of the Community acquis, checking whether existing instruments are still needed, that the right regulatory style is used and that any burdens imposed are as light as is compatible with the policy results desired. This process will also identify new initiatives for inclusion in the updated simplification rolling programme to be presented in early 2009. To make a real difference, this momentum must also continue into the next legislature.

At the same time, whenever a way is found to make life easier for businesses without affecting the underlying policy goals or proposing other significant changes to the regulatory framework, the Commission will make use of the so-called fast-track actions mechanism³ which helps towards reducing the administrative burden in the EU by the target 25%⁴ by 2012. The major exercise launched by the Commission to ‘map and measure’ administrative burden in priority areas will also fuel the simplification programme.

2. STATE OF PLAY OF THE SIMPLIFICATION ROLLING PROGRAMME

2.1. Overview

The October 2005 simplification strategy identified an initial batch of about 100 initiatives for the 2005 to 2008 rolling programme. 43 new initiatives were added in November 2006⁵ and a further 16 in October 2007⁶, widening the scope of the simplification exercise to all policy areas and extending the timetable to 2009. The programme uses legislative techniques such as repeal, codification and recasting⁷.

Implementation of the rolling programme is by and large on schedule. So far, the Commission has adopted more than half of the updated 2005-2009 programme.

Of the initiatives scheduled for adoption in 2007, 80% of the programme has been delivered by the Commission.

So far, the Commission has adopted 91 proposals composed of 24 so-called autonomous acts adopted via the comitology procedure, 16 adopted by the legislature, 44 still pending before the legislature and 7 which are either reviews where there was no need for a legislative action, or merged initiatives.

Overall, since October 2005, the Commission has already put forward about 400 legal acts for repeal, modification or replacement. As a result, about 300 legal acts representing about 5 000 pages of the Official Journal will be deleted from the Community statute book. Furthermore, since the Commission took office, it has taken action or proposed to remove about 2500 obsolete acts from the acquis.

2.2. Legislation already adopted

Implementing the strategy for simplifying the regulatory environment has already brought real benefits to business and citizens.

2.2.1. Acts adopted by the Commission

So far, 24 simplification initiatives have been adopted as Commission autonomous acts via the comitology procedure (Annex 4). For example:

- In 2005, the Commission adopted a regulation setting reduced fees and introducing an administrative assistance scheme for SMEs that register pharmaceuticals. This provides for SMEs a reduction of 90% in the fees for scientific advice, reduced fees for SMEs when applying for marketing authorisations and the provision of regulatory assistance for SMEs. Extensive use is already being made of these possibilities by SMEs active in this field.
- Rules concerning proof of import in third countries (in relation to differentiated export refunds for certain agricultural products) were amended to allow exporters applying for refunds to use IT container carriers' tracking and tracing information as an alternative to normal customs documents (which are difficult to obtain in certain countries).
- The Commission has already adopted a Recommendation on electronic communications markets that focuses regulation on the wholesale level and has cut the number of markets susceptible to ex ante regulation from 18 to 7. As a result, it is estimated that administrative costs are being reduced by around 25-30% for fixed network operators and by around 30-40% for national regulatory authorities (NRAs). Simplified market review procedures will also bring about additional savings for NRAs.

2.2.2. Acts adopted by the legislature

The bulk of the programme depends for its adoption on the legislature, typically under the co-decision procedure. To date, 16 simplification initiatives in the 2005-2009 rolling programme have been adopted (Annex 5), for example:

- In the field of agriculture, the legislature adopted the recast of the 21 Common Market Organisations into a single scheme to streamline and simplify the Common Agricultural Policy for the shared benefit of farmers, administrations and companies handling agricultural products. The creation of a single CMO will slim down legislation in the farming sector, improve its transparency and make the policy more easily accessible. It implies the repeal of almost 50 Council acts and replaces more than 650 legal articles in the current regulations with around 200 creating a much simpler overall regulatory environment without changing the underlying policies.
- The directive on remedies in public procurement. In 2003, this sector was estimated to be worth € 1,500 billion, amounting to 16.3% of EU-15 GDP. The new directive improves national review procedures that businesses can use if they consider that a public authority has awarded a contract unfairly. In particular, the directive introduces a mandatory standstill period between the notification of the award decision and the signing of the contract, in order to give bidders time to examine the decision and assess whether to initiate a review procedure. The Directive contains supplementary rules intended to ensure effectiveness. The introduction of these new rights and mechanisms for rejected bidders in all 27 Member States is crucial to making sure that contracts ultimately go to the company which has made the best offer, and therefore to the building of confidence among businesses and the public that public procurement procedures are fair. Simplification measures include the repeal of existing mechanisms of conciliation and attestation for which businesses have not expressed any real interest and which are currently unused.
- The directive on payment services contributes creating a "Single Payments Area" in the EU that could save the EU economy up to € 28 billion per year. The aim is to make electronic payments within the EU— by credit card, debit card, credit transfer, direct debit or any other means – as easy, cheap and secure as 'domestic' payments within a Member State are today. The directive guarantees fair and open access to payment markets and increases and standardises consumer protection. Simplification benefits stem from harmonisation of market access requirements, overcoming of the fragmentation effect of divergent national and EU rules on information requirements and from harmonisation of core rights and obligations of users and providers in the interests of certainty and efficiency. A more efficient and competitive payments market also means that Europeans pay less for basic banking services, the average yearly cost of which ranges from € 34 to as much as € 252 across the EU.
- The repeal of most existing pre-packaging requirements eliminated national and Community rules for about 70 consumer products. Businesses have now more flexibility to respond to consumer needs;
- In the area of customs, the legislator adopted the e-Customs decision which will create a European electronic system for data exchange between public authorities and companies. Streamlined customs procedures using automated and interlinked customs systems will boost international trade. When fully operational, the integrated system should save businesses € 2,5 billion/year, more than repaying the investment of € 40-50 million per year made by the Commission and the Member States. The modernised Customs Code, which will review the Community customs legislation, is foreseen for adoption in 2008.

2.3. Proposals pending before the legislature

Some 44 simplification proposals are currently pending before the legislature. They include a number of important proposals whose adoption will help simplify the regulatory environment, for example:

- The ground-breaking revision of EU insurance law (Solvency II) will improve policyholder protection across the EU by means of more uniform and risk-sensitive solvency requirements for insurance undertakings. Solvency II will promote better risk management, sound pricing and strengthened supervision, thus reinforcing consumer confidence. It will also increase competition (especially for mass retail businesses such as motor and household insurance), exert downward pressure on some insurance prices, encourage product innovation and improve the international competitiveness of European insurers. Finally, the regulatory environment will be more transparent and user-friendly with one directive replacing the current patchwork of rules contained in 14 different directives;
- The code of conduct for computerised reservation systems was developed for a market which has evolved significantly with the divestment of airlines and the rise in internet bookings and is now ripe for introducing more competition. The Commission proposes to give more room to market forces in tackling higher than necessary booking fees borne by airlines and passengers. Increased competition will improve the quality of services offered and reduce distribution costs in the air transport sector: booking fees per journey segment are expected to become between € 0.7 to € 0.9 cheaper, hence reducing total costs by € 190-240 million annually;
- The changes in rules governing electronic communications networks and services aim at ensuring effective competition, promoting investment, consolidating the internal market and strengthening consumer interests. Substantial reduction of regulation is advocated where there is a clear trend towards competition. An independent cost-benefit study of the proposed eCommunications Market Authority estimates potential economic benefits exceeding 10-30 times its operating costs (i.e. € 250-800 million) because of reduced regulatory uncertainty and more rapid resolution of cases. For spectrum-dependent service providers, the review introduces more flexibility, reduces the cost of doing business and removes barriers to entry for newcomers. As a result, consumers will see improved choice and lower prices for these services;
- A new directive on the inland transport of dangerous goods will bring all three modes of land transport (road, rail and inland waterways) into one single piece of legislation. The proposal contains uniform provisions for all three (wherever possible) and repeals obsolete provisions. In particular, two directives on safety advisors on dangerous goods and four decisions on national derogations will be repealed. The result will be a user-friendly, transparent text reducing the volume of the acquis by about 2 000 pages;
- The revision of the directive on toys will update safety requirements and prevent harmful medium and long term effects on children, at the same time improving the operation of the internal markets for toys. As a primary object the revision aims at modernizing the safety requirements of toys regarding their chemical, physical and mechanical properties. It will take into account the latest scientific knowledge to ensure that only safe toys are available on the EU market. Furthermore, the way the directive is enforced within the Member States will be improved and obligations for Member State to execute appropriate and effective market surveillance will be strengthened.

2.4. Initiatives in the Commission's pipeline (2008-2009)

The Commission's efforts will intensify over the next two years. The updated 2008-2009 programme (Annex 1) is composed of 45 initiatives for 2008 and 9 initiatives for 2009. Examples of forthcoming simplification initiatives include:

- The revision of the company law, accounting and auditing *acquis will remove or reduce a range of administrative requirements now considered outdated, excessive or duplicative. It will remove certain information requirements from the Company law Directives, simplify disclosure requirements for companies and allow Member States to further reduce reporting and auditing requirements for SMEs;
- The revision of the General Block Exemption Regulation (GBER) will collect in one document all provisions concerning state aids exempt from the obligation to notify, thus reducing the administrative burden for beneficiaries, Member States and the Commission. The new GBER will encompass areas already in existing block exemptions on training, employment and SMEs as well as new areas like environment, risk capital and regional aid. It will also considerably improve SMEs' access to state aid programmes, for example the "SME bonus" on top of the normal applicable basic aid for investment and employment will be harmonised and raised from 15% to 20% for small enterprises and from 7.5% to 10% for medium-sized ones;
- The revision of Intrastat will reduce the burden placed on businesses by the data collection system for Community statistics relating to trade in goods between Member States. The Commission will in the short term propose to further simplify the scheme along traditional lines by reducing the number of nomenclature headings and by increasing thresholds to exempt a large number of enterprises. It is estimated that up to 190 000 enterprises could be exempted from the obligation to report statistics. At the same time, the Commission will investigate other long term options including a possible switch to a single flow reporting system⁸ ;
- The forthcoming regulation on advanced safety features and tyres will replace some 50 separate directives by a single regulation. This will substantially lighten the burden on Member States, which will no longer need to transpose EC rules in this area. Furthermore, direct references to UNECE Regulations will considerably speed up the alignment of EU law with UNECE rules, thereby allowing industry to adapt faster to technical developments at international level;
- The review of the directive on Waste Electric and Electronic Equipments (WEEE) and the directive restricting the use of certain hazardous substances in the electric and electronic equipments (RoHS) will clarify concepts, facilitate their implementation and enforcement, reduce administrative costs for manufacturers and administrations as well as provide operators with a more transparent level playing field;

⁸ Intrastat statistics are currently produced using a system in which each country is reporting on both import and export flows. Each flow is thus reported twice.

- The proposal for a framework Directive on consumer rights will provide common definitions and regulate the main consumer contractual rights and remedies. By making the regulatory framework more simple and clear for businesses and consumers, it will contribute to the functioning of the internal market and consumer confidence;
- The modernisation and recast of the Common Fisheries Policy (CFP) control system will alleviate the constraints for the sector and increase the use of IT tools to reduce reporting obligations.

Simplification initiatives which are particularly relevant for SMEs will also be highlighted in the “Small Business Act for Europe”, to be launched in 2008.

2.5. Simplification beyond the rolling programme

Simplification does not stop with targeted programmes such as the simplification rolling programme, the programme to reduce administrative burdens and the codification programme. The same imperative of simplicity must apply across the board to all legislative proposals, as well as to operational procedures. For example:

- In the field of research - a key contributor to the Lisbon strategy - concrete measures⁹ have also been proposed to simplify the 7th framework programme for research, technological development and demonstration activities. Administrative and financial rules have been amended accordingly and the management of the Framework Programme and individual research projects has been streamlined;
- The Commission has proposed to simplify the structure of the Erasmus Mundus programme during its second phase (2009-13). Community action in the field of higher education relating to third countries will become more coherent with the streamlining of a wide range of existing programmes, currently managed under different rules despite essentially covering the same areas. This will create a single entry point for stakeholders involved in academic cooperation with third countries and international mobility;
- The Commission replaced and updated four distinct notices on different jurisdictional questions into one Consolidated Jurisdictional Notice under the EC Merger Regulation. It brought immediate simplification of administrative practice and guidance;
- The introduction of “electronic logbook” in fisheries provided for a whole paperless reporting process of fishing data for fishermen and national administrations;
- The new regulations for 2007-2013 cohesion policy reduced the number of funds and programming steps and simplified the financial management thus increasing flexibility for the local authorities managing the programmes on the ground. The rules governing the Cohesion Fund and the Structural Fund have been harmonised so that local authorities and beneficiaries have only one set of rules to apply for both Funds. In the same spirit, one new Commission regulation implementing the Structural Funds replaced 10 implementing regulations.

Furthermore, the completion of the Internal Market remains one of the most powerful means to improve the business environment. Removing barriers between Member States boosted EU GDP by € 223 billion or 2.2% in the ten years following the completion of the Single Market package in 1993. This amounts to € 1,450 of extra income per household. Furthermore, employment grew by 1.4% delivering an extra 2.75 million jobs. A single set of EU rules means businesses do not have to locate and decipher 27 different sets of national rules, adapt their products or services to them and then demonstrate compliance with them. For example:

- The Commission recently proposed to modify EU vehicle type-approvals by introducing harmonised rules for hydrogen-powered vehicles, allowing manufacturers to reap economies of scale from larger production series for the whole European market, and guaranteeing EU consumers that these innovative vehicles will meet high standards of safety and environmental protection. Adapting the type-approval system to tomorrow's technologies will also enable the EU car industry to keep pace with its main global competitors, improving its competitiveness on third countries' markets.
- In December 2007, the Commission proposed a new directive aimed at lifting obstacles to intra-community trade in defence-related products. Up to now, the circulation of such products within the internal market has been constrained by a patchwork of national procedures which not only impose an administrative burden exceeding € 430 million/year on companies and public authorities but also introduce long lead times, up to several months. This burden is clearly out of proportion with actual control needs, as demonstrated by the fact that, although around 11,500 licences for intra-Community transfer are issued annually, only 3 applications have been refused during the 2004-2006 period. This proposal will help make European defence industries economically and technologically more competitive, improve conditions for SMEs' participation in armament development and production, enable Member States to meet their military needs under proper security conditions at lower cost and enhance security of supply for public procurement and industrial cooperation.

2.6. Communication instruments and stakeholders consultation

Clear and transparent information on progress in implementation of the simplification programme is crucial to ensuring the momentum of the programme. To this end, the Commission has set up a simplification website¹⁰ to provide general information on the simplification strategy and allow stakeholders to check on the progress of the rolling programme. Moreover, in a number of further sectors (e.g. agriculture) consultation with Member States' sectoral experts and stakeholders is facilitated via sectoral groups.

Consistent with its resolve to anchor simplification in stakeholders' practical experience, in autumn 2007 the Commission launched a new online consultation website to hear businesses' concerns and suggestions regarding burdens imposed by legislation and red tape in general. The Commission will make the best possible use of this stakeholder input. Whilst primarily designed to feed into the "Action Programme for reducing administrative burdens in the European Union", any contribution addressing wider issues relevant to the substance of regulation will be taken into account in shaping the simplification strategy.

3. CODIFICATION PROGRAMME

Codification¹¹ is a key part of the Commission's drive to reduce the size of the acquis and make it more accessible.

¹⁰ http://ec.europa.eu/enterprise/regulation/better_regulation/simplification/intro.htm

¹¹ See footnote 7.

The programme of codification involves about 400 codification acts, the majority of which are legislative proposals. A total of 87 such acts have successfully gone through the codification process and have been adopted and published in the OJ (62 Commission acts and 25 acts of the European Parliament and the Council). These 87 acts replace 348 previous acts. In addition, 65 acts are pending before the legislature and 4 acts are about to be adopted by the Commission. 152 codification acts have thus already been finalised by the Commission.

In order to complete the codification programme by the end of 2008 (Annex 2), measures have been taken to get rid of the backlog of translations of texts being codified in the new EU languages. Adoption of codified acts by the legislature is subject to the rules set out in the Inter-institutional Agreement on an Accelerated Working Method for Official Codification of 20 December 1994.

4. INTER-INSTITUTIONAL ASPECTS

4.1. Proposals pending before the legislature

Responsibility for successful simplification is shared between all those involved in the decision-making process. In 2007, the legislature managed to clear the backlog of proposals dating back to the simplification programme for 2003-2004.

However, 44 proposals in the 2005-2009 rolling programme are still pending before the legislature (Annex 3). In the case of directives, the EC rules must then be transposed into national law. Therefore, several years may elapse before the benefits of simplification can be enjoyed (and noticed) by citizens and business.

The Commission has therefore encouraged the other institutions to adopt its simplification proposals with the shortest possible delay.

4.2. Simplification and the other institutions

Under the Lisbon Strategy for Growth and Jobs, the Competitiveness Council monitors the implementation of the Better Regulation agenda in a progress report at the end of each Presidency, indicating inter alia progress of the simplification rolling programme. While the Commission welcomes the continued interest of the Council in better regulation in general and simplification in particular, it notes that Council working methods for the examination of simplification proposals have not yet changed fundamentally, despite commitments made in the Inter-institutional Agreement on Better Lawmaking.

In its Resolution on the Strategy for the Simplification of the Regulatory Environment¹², the European Parliament welcomed the Commission's programme on codification and agreed that the simplification programme should be promoted and supported by matching national simplification initiatives. The Parliament also invites the three institutions to conclude an inter-institutional agreement on accelerated working methods for simplification measures. The Commission appreciates Parliament's constructive support and the action already taken to implement the better regulation agenda. The Commission especially welcomes the Parliament's amendment of its internal procedures for examining codification and recasting proposals, which clarifies the division of responsibilities between committees and safeguards codified parts from undue amendment on substance.

The Commission therefore encourages the Council and the Parliament to ensure speedy adoption of its pending simplification proposals and ensure that the simplification content is maintained in the process.

4.3. Cooperation with the European Economic and Social Committee and the Committee of the Regions

The Commission has tried to better organise the canvassing of organised civil society on the regulatory quality of the acquis.

Further to a request from the Commission, the EESC delivered in September 2007 its opinion on the scope for simplifying the regulatory framework in the machine sector. This had to cover both sector-specific rules and broader legislation affecting machines, for example health, safety and environmental protection. The Commission intends to pursue this cooperation and has now addressed similar requests to the Committee for further reports on other key sectors, such as the construction sector and business services.

The Commission also welcomes the report on better regulation adopted by the Committee of the Regions in October 2007¹³.

5. CONCLUSIONS / CLOSING REMARKS

Cutting red tape is now firmly on the Community political agenda. Like the other components of the Better Regulation Agenda drawn up by the Commission at the beginning of its mandate, the Simplification Strategy has reached cruising speed and is delivering the first tangible and impressive benefits. The Commission will complete screening the roughly 95 000 pages of the Community acquis to identify possible areas where future simplification activities might focus, and will integrate the results in the updated simplification rolling programme to be presented in early 2009. The Commission is determined to see the present rolling programme through and to make the acquis as simple, lean and up to date as possible. A method has been put in practice and the action is producing results.

It is however clear that the regulatory framework cannot be improved by the Commission alone. More than ever, genuine, coordinated and determined commitment at all regulatory levels is essential to translate wishful political intentions into tangible results and ensure that the genuine expectations of companies and citizens are fulfilled. For their part, the European Parliament and Council share the institutional responsibility for propelling the Commission's proposals to the final stage of adoption. So far, notwithstanding acknowledged efforts, less than a quarter of all simplification proposals tabled by the Commission that require adoption by the legislature have been adopted. Obviously, it is essential that the simplification content of these proposals is preserved during the decision-making process.

In the same vein, national, regional or local authorities in charge of transposing and implementing EU law should strive to complement the work done in Brussels. Too often late transposition or layers of "gold-plating" erode the simplifying effect of EU rules. The work currently being carried out to map and measure administrative burden in certain policy areas is expected to provide interesting lessons in this regard. In line with its recent Communication "A Europe of Results – Applying Community Law", the Commission will intensify its upstream efforts to prevent infringements of EC law by improving the quality of assistance it offers to Member States to facilitate the correct transposition and application of directives.

¹³ Opinion of the Committee of the Regions on BETTER LAWMAKING 2005 and 2006, CdR397/2006 fin

Finally, since the greater part of the EU regulatory landscape is not shaped at Community level, simplification programmes must also be developed or reinforced at national (and where appropriate, regional) level to tackle the reams of red tape which spew forth independently of EU legislation. In future, the Commission will place the emphasis on this aspect when it looks at the National Reform Programmes submitted in the context of the Lisbon Agenda.

Simplification Rolling programme (2008-2009)

	Title of action	Type of simplification action	Description of scope and objectives	Additional initiatives to COM (2005) 535 and COM(2006) 690
2008¹⁴
1.	Legislative proposals arising from the Communication on the 'Health Check' in the Common Agricultural Policy	Revision	Following the 2007 Communication on the "Health Check" in the Common Agricultural Policy (CAP), the legislative proposals will provide options aiming at making the Single Payment Scheme more effective, adapting the market support instruments and addressing the new challenges facing the sector. The "Health Check" is not a fundamental reform, rather it essentially aims to ensure that the CAP functions effectively and to simplify it where possible. This initiative arises from the review clauses regarding the Single Payment Scheme and certain agricultural markets that were included in the 2003/04 CAP reforms.
2.	Commission Regulation on information and promotion actions for agricultural products on the internal market and in third countries	Revision	This initiative has as objective to establish the conditions regarding co-financing of information and promotion programmes for agricultural products in the internal market and in third countries. It will take the form of a consolidation of two existing Commission Regulations ((EC) No 1071/2005 and (EC) No 1346/2005).	X

¹⁴ As adopted in the Commission Legislative and Work Programme of the Commission 2008 - COM(2007) 640.

3.	Private Storage: Commission Regulation laying down common rules for private storage of agricultural products under Common Agricultural Policy	Revision	The aim of the proposal is to replace multiple sectoral rules by horizontal ones and to simplify management mechanisms relating to the private storage of agricultural products. Existing sectoral provisions, which may vary from one sector to another, will be examined with a view to eliminating unnecessary provisions and to harmonising the system of private storage.
4.	Council Regulation amending Regulation (EC) No 1234/2007 establishing a common organisation of markets (CMO) and on specific provisions for certain agricultural products (single CMO regulation)	Revision, recast and repeal	The single common market organisation (CMO) regulation, scheduled for adoption by Council in October 2007, merges existing CMOs into a single text. It does not modify policy but streamlines and harmonises legislation. Various substantive amendments were made in the meantime to the existing CMOs. This is notably the case in the milk, the sugar and the fruit and vegetables sectors, It is important to incorporate these amendments into the single CMO in order to achieve the aim of having one single simplified legal text which will facilitate the access to the existing legislation and thus create a much higher degree of transparency and legal clarity. The initiative thus concerns the subsequent Commission proposal.	X
5.	Milk Package (two separate initiatives): 1) Commission Regulation laying down certain implementing rules with regard to intervention for butter 2) Commission Regulation laying down certain implementing rules with regard to intervention for skimmed milk powder	Revision	The purpose of the initiative is to simplify the procedures relating to intervention buying of butter, to abolish national butter quality grades, and to abolition private storage aid for cream and skimmed milk powder. Technical clarifications and simplification (e.g. concerning the security provisions) will improve the readability of the text.	X

	Title of action	Type of simplification action	Description of scope and objectives	Additional initiatives to COM (2005) 535 and COM(2006) 690
6.	Streamline Controls: Amendment of Commission Regulation (EC) No 796/2004 regarding the detailed rules of cross compliance and the integrated administration and control system	Revision	This proposal stems directly from the Commission report to the Council on the application of the system of cross-compliance (COM(2007) 147). Its amendments will lead to simpler and more effective rules concerning the controls on direct payments to farmers with regard to the selection of the control sample, the timing of these controls, and the specific rules concerning on the spot checks.	X
7.	Starch Production Refunds: Commission Regulation amending Regulation (EEC) No 1722/93 laying down detailed rules for the application of Council Regulation (EEC) No 1766/92 concerning production refunds in the cereals sector	Revision	Objective of this initiative is the simplification of control procedures by increasing the threshold for special control requirements. It will simplify the business environment in which EU starch producers operate by eliminating the unnecessary / disproportionate administrative measures related to the control on modified starches This proposal has been elaborated following the consultation of NGOs/stakeholders.	X
8.	Controls of export refunds: Commission Regulation amending Regulations (EC) No 2090/2002, (EC) No 3122/94 and (EC) No 800/1999 as regards physical and substitution controls in the framework of export refunds on agricultural products	Revision	Modification of Regulation (EC) No 2090/2002 laying down detailed rules for applying Council Regulation (EC) No 386/90 as regards physical checks carried out when agricultural products qualifying for refunds are exported.	X
9.	Fresh fruit and vegetables: proposal for a Commission Regulation laying down the marketing standards for fresh fruit and vegetables and establishing requirements on checks on conformity to these marketing standards	Revision	The objective of the proposal is to merge 34 regulations on marketing standards for fresh fruit and vegetables into one regulation, reduce the list of products covered by marketing standards and rationalise checking operations.	X

	Title of action	Type of simplification action	Description of scope and objectives	Additional initiatives to COM (2005) 535 and COM(2006) 690
10.	Common market organisation of wine: amendment of the Council Regulation establishing the single Common Market Organisation Regulation (EC) No 1234/2007 to include the provisions with regard the common market organisation of wine.	Revision	The amendment will include the specific rules concerning the common organisation of the wine market into the general rules concerning the organisation of the common market in agricultural produce. This will clarify and simplify the EU legislation.	X
11.	Commission Regulation on the application of Articles 87 and 88 of the Treaty to regional aid, SME, R&D, environmental aid, employment, training. (General Block Exemption Regulation - final adoption)	Revision	The final objective pursued by the Commission is to group all existing Block Exemption Regulations into one single Regulation for the first time ever. This will bring a qualitative impact in terms of clarity, predictability and transparency of EU rules for business and national and regional authorities. The new GBER will cover areas already covered by block exemptions (training, employment, SME) and new areas (environment, risk capital, regional aid). Texts on research and capital risk were adopted in 2006, but those applicable to the environment will be adopted in 2007. Finalisation of the draft new GBER is scheduled for 2007 and formal adoption by the Commission in 2008.
12.	Council Directive 2001/23/EC on the approximation of the laws of the Member States relating to the safeguarding of employees' rights in the event of transfers of undertakings, businesses or parts of undertakings or businesses	Revision	Directive 2001/23/EC does not contain any provisions on conflict of laws. As a result, there is a lack of clarity as to how to apply the provisions of the Directive to cross-border transfers. The aim of the proposal - to be made by the Commission following the two phases of consultation of social partners - is therefore to clarify the application of the Directive to cross-border operations. The proposal would increase legal certainty for economic and judicial agents and result in costs savings for undertakings and better protection for workers. Following the results of the first phase of consultations which took

			place in November 2007, it appears that the revision of the Directive is not necessary.
13.	Community initiative on work-related musculoskeletal disorders	Recast	The objective of this initiative is to integrate into a single legislative instrument the provisions on the protection of the health and safety of workers from the risks of musculo-skeletal disorders at work. These provisions are currently fragmented over different directives, namely Council Directive 90/269/EEC on the minimum health and safety requirements for the manual handling of loads and Council Directive 90/270/EEC on the minimum health and safety requirements for work with display screen equipment. A single legislative instrument would be more comprehensive, clearer and easier to apply. It will benefit employers in terms of legal clarity and workers in terms of providing better protection against the risks of musculo-skeletal disorders.
14.	Revision of the Pharmaceutical "Variations" Regulations: change to the legal basis, in Directives 2001/83/EC on the Community code relating to medicinal products for human use and 2001/82/EC for veterinary use	Revision	The objective is to simplify the rules concerning post-licensing changes to medicines (so-called 'Variations' Regulations). Administrative management of these rules currently mobilise more than 60% of the human resources and financial costs of companies' regulatory departments. In some cases, this burden may hinder innovation by preventing the introduction of changes that are beneficial to patients and society. The objective of this initiative is to reduce the administrative burden for industry by streamlining the circumstances obliging industry to fill applications for variations of human and veterinary medical products. The current legal basis for implementing rules on changes to the marketing authorisation doesn't allow the Commission to set rules for purely national marketing authorisation. This legal basis should be widened to close the gap for harmonisation. This initiative aims at changing the legal basis for Directives: 2001/83/EC on the Community code relating to medicinal products for human use and Directive 2001/82/EC on the Community code relating to medicinal products for veterinary use.

15.	Revision of the pharmaceutical "Variations" Regulations: simplification and modernisation of Regulation (EC) No 1084/2003 and (EC) No 1085/2003	Revision	The objective is to reduce the administrative burden for industry by simplifying the rules for variations of human and veterinary medicinal products. The Variations regulation are implementing rules adopted by the Commission on changes to the marketing authorisation of pharmaceuticals.
16.	Regulation on Advanced Safety Features and Tyres	Revision	The proposal will simplify EC legislation in the domain of vehicle safety by replacing existing legislation in the area into one main Regulation. It will include electronic stability control and low rolling resistance tyres. The proposal will repeal some 50 separate Directives and will replace them, where appropriate, with references to UNECE Regulations. The beneficiaries of the simplification aspect of this proposal will primarily be vehicle manufacturers and national approval authorities. Replacing Directives with a Regulation will also ease the administrative burden on the Member States since they would not have to transpose legal acts in the domain of vehicle safety in the future. Furthermore, references to UNECE Regulations will avoid the existing duplication between EU and UNECE law and will thus lead to "better regulation".

17.	Textiles: simplification and replacement by a single regulation	Revision	The replacement of 3 Directives by 1 Regulation will simplify procedures for Member States, companies and the Commission leading to shorter periods for adoption of new fibre names. The standard methods of quantitative analysis of binary and ternary textile fibre mixtures currently included in two of the directives are to be transferred to the standardisation process. This means that consumers and companies could benefit faster from the use of new innovative products. Innovation and technological developments will be thus encouraged. In addition, the legal nature of the legislation (Regulation) will facilitate the application of technical adaptations by the Member States.
18.	Pressure Vessels and Transportable Pressure Equipment	Repeal	The objective is to repeal 4 Directives on Pressure Vessels (76/767/EEC, 84/525/EEC, 84/526/EEC, 84/527/EEC) and integration of the still relevant provisions into the revision of Directive 99/36/EC (Transportable Pressure Equipment).
19.	Metrology: extension of the scope of Directive 2004/22/EC on measuring instruments and repeal of 8 "old approach" methodology Directives	Repeal	The objective is to provide for a coherent legal framework for legal metrology. The extension of the scope of the Directive is the legal prerequisite for the repeal of the following "old approach" Directives.
20.	Eco-management and audit scheme: revision of the Regulation (EC) No 761/2001 of 19 March 2001 allowing voluntary participation by organisations in a Community eco-management and audit scheme (EMAS)	Revision	The revision aims at improving environmental performance of the organisations participating and increasing participation from both industrial and public sector. Legal compliance and environmental performance improvement of the participating organisations will be facilitated by providing access to advice on environmental legal obligations and guidance on the best environmental management practice. Administrative burden will be reduced for large corporations

			by allowing corporate registration and for small organisations by cluster registration. All participating organisations will benefit from reduced procedural requirements, simplified rules for the use of logo and harmonised rules for accreditation, verification and registration. In addition SMEs and small local authorities will benefit from reduced verification and reporting obligations and lower registration fees. Synergies with other environmental management systems will be facilitated. Incentives and regulatory relief for participating organisations by the member states will be encouraged.
21.	Eco-label award scheme: revision of Regulation (EC) No 1980/2000 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 July 2000 on a revised Community eco-label award scheme	Revision	The revision aims at enhancing effectiveness and market impact by increasing the range of eligible product groups and the number of eco-labelled goods and services actually available to the consumer. For this purpose, the procedure of developing and adopting eco-label criteria will be thoroughly changed and simplified. Economic stakeholders will be involved to a greater extent into the process, thereby increasing ownership and self-regulatory aspects of the scheme, whereas the administrative burden put on Member States will be reduced. Once the criteria are adopted, it will be easy for economic operators to apply for the award of the eco-label to their products. Synergies with existing eco-labels at national level will be facilitated and limits will be put on the costs and fees Member States' authorities may charge on the applicant. Furthermore, the criteria should be defined in such a way that they can be easily used for the purpose of green public procurement.

22.	Biocides: revision of the legislation on the placing of biocidal products on the market	Recast	This proposal follows the 2007 Report on the implementation of the Biocides Directive (98/8/EC). The objective is to provide a revised legal framework for regulating the placing on the market of biocidal products. The revision aims to address concerns regarding complexity and the cost, as well as the availability of certain biocidal products, and bring about a significant simplification of the current legislative framework and procedures. The revision of the biocides legislative framework will bring it in line with the EU Chemicals policy (REACH Regulation).	X
23.	WEEE: revision of Directive 2002/96/EC on Waste Electric and Electronic Equipments	Revision	The revision of the Directive 2002/96/EC will examine possibilities to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the directive in achieving its environmental goals and eliminate any unnecessary costs to business, consumers, NGOs and public authorities arising from implementation of the directive. The revision will concern the targets, scope, treatment requirement and the operation of the producer responsibility provisions.
24.	RoHS: revision of Directive 2002/95/EC on the limitation of the use of certain hazardous substances in the electric and electronic equipments	Revision	The revision aims at clarifying concepts and facilitate the implementation and enforcement while increasing the environmental benefits. It will enhance legal certainty for all stakeholders and will facilitate implementation by manufacturers by streamlining the mechanism for granting exemptions and enforcement by national authorities through market surveillance and administrative cooperation clauses. It will furthermore provide a more transparent level playing field for manufacturers and simplify procedures through introduction of harmonised compliance checking. Most of these measures will also enhance the internal market effect of the Directive and reduce administrative costs for administrations and manufacturers.

25.	Ozone layer: revision of Regulation (EC) No 2037/2000 on substances that deplete the ozone layer	Recast	As the production and consumption of the substances covered have been reduced or phased out, many provisions of the Regulation, after seven years in force, need to be repealed or updated. Other provisions may benefit from simplification such as clarification of definitions and procedures and interaction with other pieces of legislation. This will reduce the cases of ambiguous interpretation and the risk of infringements and consequent administrative burdens. In particular, most of the administrative cost reduction will result from ending exemption provisions on some uses of ozone depleting substances. The beneficiaries will be the Member States and the Commission. Overall, the cost savings from ending the exemptions is expected to exceed any additional cost associated with new control measures to combat illegal trade of ozone depleting substances.
26.	SEIS: legislative proposal to follow up the Communication on a Shared Environmental Information System (SEIS)	Revision	Following the 2007 Communication the Commission will adopt legislative proposals underpinning the development of SEIS that could address reporting streamlining and/or coherence of approaches to monitoring and information. This initiative aims to improve the availability, quality and comparability of data, avoid redundancies in reporting requirements to Member States and therefore, the administrative burden, remove obstacles related to information accessibility and enhance the coherence of monitoring systems and	X indicators.

27.	Revision of Regulation (EC) No 638/2004 of the EP and of the Council on Community statistics relating to the trading of goods between Member States	Revision	Simplification of Intrastat with a view to alleviate the statistical reporting of economic operators, in particular SMEs, taking into account the outcome of the ongoing pilot project of administrative costs and a future feasibility study to analyse workability of a collection system limited to one flow.
28.	Modernisation and recast of the CFP control system under Regulation (EC) No 2847/93	Recast	The main objectives are the review, harmonisation and simplification of existing rules - Regulation (EC) No 2847/93 - in the fisheries control area. The modernisation of the procedures will facilitate a better enforcement by alleviating the burden and constraints for the sector and public administrations and increasing the use of IT tools to reduce reporting obligations (e.g. reducing administrative burdens). It would be also of interest for NGOs which campaign for stringent and effective rules.

29.	Proposal for a Commission Regulation laying down implementing rules for the collection and management of data needed to conduct the CFP	Revision	The proposal is intended to establish implementing rules according to the new framework Council Regulation on data collection, currently under discussion at the Council. The main innovations will include the support for new approaches such as fleet and area based management and the move towards the ecosystem approach as well as the promotion of a more regional approach to data collection. Moreover, new provisions for the access to data are to be included.	X
30.	Revision of the company law, accounting and auditing acquis	Revision	Measures to simplify the company law environment for companies in the context of the "Better Regulation" framework.
31.	Consolidation of accounting standards and interpretations endorsed for use in the EU	Recast	Commission will prepare a consolidated version of all International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) in force as per 31.12.2007. It will enable constituents to refer to only one Regulation as it will contain all endorsed IFRS. In this context any translation errors contained in the current Regulations will be corrected.
32.	Recasting - Codification Motor insurance Directive	Codification	Codification of the current 6 Directives into one single Motor Insurance Directive in order to have a motor insurance acquis more comprehensible, easier to apply and more effective in achieving its goals.

33.	Proposal for a Framework Directive on Consumer Contractual Rights	Revision	The overall aim of the revision of the acquis, is to simplify and improve the coherence of the consumer regulatory framework and thus enhance legal certainty both for consumers and business. The legal instrument will be a combination of codification and repeal of parts of existing directives and enactment of new rules. The revision will be based on a mixed approach consisting of the adoption of a horizontal instrument, underpinned whenever required by vertical revisions of existing directives. This framework instrument would systematise and regulate in a uniform fashion common features of the consumer acquis. The instrument would provide common definitions and regulate the main consumer contractual rights and remedies. It would also regulate consistently the contractual aspects of sales which are currently scattered across several Directives.
34.	Simplify procedures of listing and publishing information in the veterinary and zootechnical fields	Revision	The general objective is to harmonise and simplify, essentially by means of electronic tools, the current procedures for listing, updating and publishing information in the veterinary and zootechnical fields such as lists of approved animal health establishments and breeding organisations in Member States and Third Countries and lists of certain national reference laboratories. 22 Council acts are concerned.	X
35.	Harmonisation of Maximum Residues Levels (MRL) for pesticides	Revision	The main objective of this proposal will concern the transfer and update by comitology of the list of MRLs (Annex II) and temporary MRLs (Annex III) based on European Food Safety Agency (EFSA) assessment and mathematical models/expert calculations. The proposal will be a final step towards harmonisation of divergent national MRLs.	X

36.	Review of the provisions related to the total feed ban	Revision	A ban on the feeding of mammalian meat and bone meal (MBM) to cattle, sheep and goats was introduced as of July 1994. This partial ban was extended to a total EU wide suspension on the use of processed animal protein in feed for any animals farmed for the production of food on 1 January 2001 with some exceptions like the use of fish meal for non-ruminants. Any presence of prohibited constituents of animal origin in feed is considered as a breach of the feed ban i.e. the zero-tolerance. Following the adoption of the TSE Road map the Commission issued a Commission staff working paper i.e. Work Programme on TSE [SEC(2006) 1527] on future legislative actions in the field of transmissible spongiform encephalopathy. One of the topics concerns a revision of the feed ban provisions. The starting point when revising the current feed ban provisions should be risk-based but at the same time taking into account the control tools in place to evaluate and ensure the proper implementation of this feed ban.	X

This permits the abolition of border controls on trade in animals and animal products between the two. 	X
38.	Recast of basic safety standards legislation for the protection against the dangers arising from exposure to ionising radiation	Recast	Recast into a single Council Directive of relevant Euratom acts on radiation protection including a substantial revision of the Basic Safety Standards (BSS) directive. The objective is to bring the BSS directive in line with the forthcoming recommendations of the International Commission on Radiological protection (ICRP), when available. At the same time the legislation in the field of radiation protection has to be simplified.
39.	Legislative proposal revising Council Directive 2006/67/EC with the aim of strengthening the European emergency oil stocks system	Revision	The current system of emergency oil stocks shows limitations and shortcomings on several accounts. The provisions of the existing legislation will be revised in order to create a system for coping with oil supply disruptions. The new proposal will replace existing Directives and contribute to simplification of EU legislation.

40.	Recasting of Directive 2002/91/EC of 16 December 2002 on the Energy Performance of Buildings	Recast or Revision	The Energy Performance of Buildings Directive makes certificates for the energy performance of buildings mandatory when buildings are constructed, sold or rented out and requires minimum energy performance requirements for new buildings and existing building which undergo major renovation. Furthermore, the Directive requires regular inspections of boilers and air-conditioning systems in order to guarantee their energy efficient operation. An amended Directive could enlarge the scope to more buildings, strengthen and specify some of these requirements and add, for instance, financing aspects. The changes under consideration aim at overcoming multiple barriers that hinder the utilization of the vast potential for energy demand reductions in the buildings sector. The recasting of the Directive is part of package on the Strategic Energy Review and included in the Energy Efficiency Action Plan. The amendments will cover some articles of the Directive and add new ones. The "simplification" will consist of using the "recasting" technique to facilitate reading and comprehension for the implementing authorities and for the many stakeholders affected.	X
41.	Recast of Council Directive 92/75/EEC of 22 September 1992 on the indication by labelling and standard product information of the consumption of energy and other resources by household appliances	Recast	Amend the existing framework Directive to enlarge its scope (beyond domestic appliances) and update for modern communication tools (e.g. internet) to enhance public/consumer awareness on efficient products. The simplification will be obtained by using the recasting technique for consolidating the original Directive with its amendment in one single document.

42.	Proposal to recast the legislation concerning the "first railway package" following the report in 2006 of its implementation, in particular for the requirements concerning the relations between infrastructure managers and railway undertakings	Recast	The first and successive railway packages are legal instruments to achieve the Community's objective to create a European Railway Area through market opening, as well as technical and regulatory market integration. As rail markets transform, an ongoing review of the suitability of the EU legal framework appears appropriate with possible simplification and streamlining. The Commission intends to present a communication accompanied by a proposal for modification/recast of the existing acts, especially Directives 91/440/EEC and 2001/14/EC. The political goal is to enhance the competitiveness of rail transport in Europe and to hence contribute to achieving the objectives of the Lisbon strategy. The recast aims at a simplification of the text of the three Directives of the 1st railway package by merging them into one legal act, a 'railway access code'. By eliminating existing cross-references between the Directives the reading and implementation will be come easier for the implementing authorities and the many stakeholders affected.
43.	Revision of the Council Directive 94/56/EC establishing the fundamental principles governing the investigation of civil aviation accidents and incidents and of Directive 2003/42/EC on occurrence reporting in civil aviation	Revision or Recast	The older directive needs to be modernised following the establishment of EASA and following the advice of the Group of Experts established by EC Decision 2003/425/EC. In addition the newer directive needs to be built on to create a minimum set of centralised functions, including a database to allow appropriate entities to carry out trend analysis or other studies, and keep track of safety recommendations, while providing information to the general public. Both directives will be replaced by a single piece of legislation. The objective of the simplification is to take advantage of the necessary revision of the Directive 94/56 to adapt it to recent developments by merging it with Directive 2003/42/EC to create a single legislative act as both directives deal with the use of feedback information to improve accident prevention.

44.	Modernise the Marine Equipment Directive 96/98/EC	Recast or Revision	The objective is to modernise and reform the existing system established by Council Directive 96/98/EC on marine equipment. Its main objectives are: 1) to produce a consolidated version of the text following the successive amendments of the Directive 2) to improve the functioning of the Directive's system by addressing the existing shortcomings ; 3) to adapt it to the reform of the New Approach. It is intended to abrogate the existing Directive and replace it with an entirely new one, while recourse to recast is not excluded. At present, the Directive needs periodic amendments in order to keep pace with the safety requirements and technical standards produced by the International Maritime Organisation as well as the international and European standardisation bodies. This produces an inevitable mismatch between the European and international regulatory frameworks, sometimes spanning several years, whose correction will greatly facilitate the work of the sectors concerned and thus favour the competitiveness of the European marine equipment industry. Furthermore, the adaptation of the directive to the new regulatory framework for the free movement of goods (revision of the new

45.	Transport of radioactive material	Recast	The objective is to update and simplify the Community regulatory framework for transporting radioactive material There are currently more than 20 Directives, Regulations and Recommendations governing the transport of radioactive material within the EU. Harmonisation will lead to simplification of rules and procedures.

Their updated version delivered by CEN will no longer be included in the legal act but will exist in the form of separate standards to which the Community law will refer – the detailed description of test methods currently contained in the Annex will be deleted.
